Section 5: Qualitative Assessment

1. Describe how HEAP funds have contributed to your Continuum of Care making progress towards local homeless goals (e.g. additional services provided, capacity created, systems building, investments made, lower waitlists, etc.)

In order to address critical needs of persons experiencing homelessness (particularly those experiencing unsheltered homelessness), the City of Fresno elected to direct its HEAP funding towards the following five focus areas: services for families, including diversion and housing placement services; outreach and engagement for people experiencing unsheltered homelessness, particularly those staying in encampments; operation of emergency shelter services, including specialized services for families fleeing domestic violence and people experiencing chronic homelessness; employment training and placement services to connect people experiencing homelessness with income opportunities; and, temporary housing and services for youth and young adults. As the City previously had only limited dedicated public funding available to address homelessness (ESG, TBRA, CDBG), the HEAP funds have substantially increased the community's capacity to address the needs of people experiencing homelessness within the City of Fresno. Thirty-seven emergency shelter beds plus four shelter units for families were added to the system's capacity, providing immediate opportunities to assist people in moving off of the street and into shelter - and from there, into more permanent housing. Additionally, the HEAP funds have expanded housing navigation services offered in the community, with five of the contracted service providers providing housing navigation and housing-focused case management to people experiencing homelessness. In addition to adding services that provide housing directly or through linkages, the HEAP funds have increased coordination and communication amongst homelessness service providers and system partners, including the Continuum of Care and law enforcement, within the City of Fresno. Through HEAP contracts, agencies are working to develop referral and coordination partnerships to maximize impact of available resources.

2. Describe how HEAP funds have contributed to your Continuum of Care making progress towards local youth homelessness goals (e.g. additional services provided, capacity created, systems building, investments made, lower waitlist, etc.)

A minimum of five percent of HEAP funds were to be dedicated to addressing youth homelessness: in light of community need for increased services for youth experiencing homelessness, the City of Fresno elected to almost double this investment and dedicate approximately ten percent of its HEAP allocation towards shelter and housing-focused services for youth. The HEAP funds are being utilized towards an acknowledged prior gap in the service continuum of the City of Fresno: shelter beds for parenting youth ages 18-24 and their children. Through bridge housing (extended shelter services), the City is now able to offer two units specifically for youth-headed households (with an average anticipated family size of 2-4 people).

3. Describe the alignment between HEAP-funded activities and "Housing First" principles (as defined in Welfare and Institutions Code section 8255).

The Fresno-Madera Continuum of Care, of which the City of Fresno is a member, has adopted Housing First principles and approaches for its homelessness response services. Additionally, in 2018 the City of Fresno partnered with the County to engage in a strategic planning framework that is grounded in Housing First practices and evidence. (Please see www.street2homefresno.org.) This lens informed the identification of project areas for the HEAP funds, with a focus on outreach, low-barrier shelter, and housing navigation services that can support people experiencing homelessness in connecting with housing as quickly as possible. The HEAP-funded programs work in coordination with other resources offered through the Continuum of Care, including permanent supportive housing, rapid rehousing, and Coordinated Entry to connect households with resources that can resolve their experience of homelessness and provide supportive services to promote retention.

4. Please provide any additional feedback on the impact of HEAP funds that you would like to share with the Homeless Coordinating and Financing Council. (Optional)

On behalf of Mayor Lee Brand who worked with other Big 11 California City Mayors to request these additional resources from the Governor, we are grateful for the fund and for the streamlined way that you have quickly disbursed them for maximum impact in Fresno and other cities. Thank you.
