Addressing the Unique Needs of Individuals Impacted by Justice Involvement, Behavioral Health Challenges and Homelessness
Outline and Panelists

• Critical Issues and Best Practices in the Intersections of Justice Involvement, Behavioral Health, and Homelessness – Stephanie Welch, Executive Officer, The Council on Criminal Justice and Behavioral Health

• Stories of Lived Experience – Wayne Garcia, Vice President of Criminal Justice Programs, HealthRight360 and program members Shayon de lece Sledge and Yvonne Tate

• Diversion and Reentry Programs for Local (jail) and State (prison) Populations – Doug Bond, Chief Executive Officer, Amity Foundation

• Strategies to Impact Challenges and Opportunities Identified – Panelists

• Q and A and Discussion with Panelists
Goals for Presentation

• Identify critical issues and best practices

• Explore how Housing First can be effectively and appropriately applied to justice-involved individuals experiencing behavioral health challenges and understand the barriers to doing so

• Listen and learn from experiences of people living in this intersection, what are the challenges and what works to overcome them

• Raise awareness of the differences between serving individuals with multiple interactions with jails vs significant time served in state institutions/prisons

• Discuss how HCFC can support strategies that effectively impact this population at such high risk of homelessness

Is connecting people with needed mental health treatment enough?

Only for a few. Most will need more.

More Treatment Alone is Not Sufficient
Addressing Criminogenic Needs

Antisocial

The Big Four
(impacting these are the major drivers to reducing criminal behavior)

Higher-risk offenders are likely to have more of the Big Four.

Programs targeting these needs can significantly lower recidivism rates

* Past criminality cannot be changed.
Homelessness and Criminal Justice

- Of the 11 million people admitted to jail annually…
- About 15% report experiencing homelessness in the year prior to arrest.¹
- Rates of homelessness are higher among people who have mental illness and co-occurring substance use disorders.

Source:
Over 50,000 people enter homeless shelters directly from prison or jail each year\(^1\)

Since 2011, the number of people experiencing homelessness has fallen, while the number people entering homelessness from correctional institutions has risen\(^2\)

Housing Instability and Criminal Justice Involvement: A Cyclical Relationship

1. Law enforcement policies and procedures that contribute to arrest for behaviors associated with experiencing homelessness.

2. Lack of stable housing viewed as a risk factor and reduces courts’ willingness to divert individuals from jail or prison.

3. Criminal history serves as a barrier to housing, contributing to housing instability and homelessness.

4. Lack of stable housing upon exit from jail contributes to supervision failure, increases risk of recidivism.

Lack of understanding of true scope of problem, collaborative strategies, and investment in effective interventions from the homeless and criminal justice systems.
Applying the CJ/BH Framework for Complex Needs

The Criminal Justice and Behavioral Health Needs Framework

Individuals with affordable housing needs

Individuals with behavioral health, chronic medical conditions

High need, high cost

High crim. risk

Individuals currently or recently under criminal justice supervision

CCJ BH

Council on Criminal Justice and Behavioral Health
Numerous studies have documented Housing First’s success:

- 85-90% of participants achieve housing stability and avoid returns to homelessness
- Improved mental health outcomes, addiction recovery, less use of opioids and other hard drugs
- Improvements in chronic health conditions, higher survival rates for people with HIV/AIDS
- Fewer emergency department visits and inpatient hospitalizations
- Cost offsets in Medicaid and other publicly funded services
- Reductions in recidivism to jail and prison
Why Isn’t Housing First & Criminal Justice More Connected?

1. Limited history of collaborative planning between criminal justice, behavioral health, and housing/homelessness agencies/sectors

2. Lack of coordination and referral systems connecting criminal justice intercept points and housing

3. Resources are scarce

4. Significant barriers to an array of housing opportunities for people with justice histories exist and have not been addressed adequately, including enforcement of current laws

Stories of Lived Experience and Lessons Learned from the Field
Strategies to Impact Challenges & Opportunities

HCFC can inform policymakers about the unique challenges of obtaining safe, affordable and permanent housing for individuals with justice involvement.

HCFC can identify specific ways to address these barriers as part of developing the statewide strategic plan to end homelessness.

HCFC can provide training and technical assistance to local CoCs and other housing service providers about the needs and strategies most effective with justice involved populations.
Strategies to Impact Challenges & Opportunities

HCFC can report on how the HEAP funds are impacting individuals who are justice-involved and work to use statewide data to inform decision-making.

CCJ BH can work with the HCFC to ensure that required conditions of parole and probation, as well as court-ordered treatment, can co-exists with Housing First requirements and best practices.

HCFC can identify and disseminate best practices in the application of CES with criminal justice referral entities.

HCFC can encourage the inclusion of justice status as part of the Vulnerability Index Service Prioritization Decision Assistance Tool.
